Dr. Timothy Albert to Come to Duke as DUCCS Visiting Professor

Dr. Timothy Albert, who completed his Duke cardiology fellowship in 2006, will return to Duke campus March 13-14 as the DUCCS Visiting Professor. In 2015, Dr. Albert became the medical director of Tanner Medical Group, a multi-specialty network with over 30 locations in Georgia and Alabama.

Previously, he was the medical director for the Center for Advanced Diagnostic Imaging in Monterey, California, which he started in 2008.

Dr. Albert's time at Duke will include a visit to the Duke Cardiovascular Magnetic Resonance Center, meetings with fellows and faculty members, and a closed-door dinner where fellows can learn about Dr. Albert's career path and hold candid discussions about what happens after their fellowship.

Visiting Professorship is a unique opportunity for DUCCS members. Past

DUCCS Visiting Professors have enjoyed connecting with old friends and colleagues while networking with fellows and learning about Duke's latest cardiology-related initiatives and research. We look forward to Dr. Albert's visit.

Thank You to New and Returning Members

We would like to thank those who became members or renewed their memberships in January and February.

Membership dues go toward programs that support cardiology fellows and the growth of their careers, and we are grateful for the contributions of our new and returning members. Membership in DUCCS offers access to a host of resources, from participation in clinical trials to opportunities to return as a DUCCS Visiting Professor.

Spotlight On... Duke Cardiology Fellow Michael Minder

Duke Cardiology Fellow
Michael Minder

We're using our Spotlight On... feature to get acquainted with current fellows, longtime DUCCS members, and more.

This month, meet Duke cardiology fellow Michael Minder.

Clinical interests: non-invasive cardiology

Research interests: applications of focused cardiac ultrasound, statins and primary prevention

Something nobody knows about me: I'm a former McDonald's employee of the month (class of 2000)

A question I hate being asked: What's your first name? The answer is Camille. I spend a lot of time explaining to others that "she" is me.
